

Focus of Quality of Life SIRG:

The SIRG-QoL includes two sub-groups: person-centered quality of life, and family-centered quality of life. The officers and members at large reflect these two groups well.

Mission:

The mission of the SIRG-QOL is to further work that enhances the quality of life for individuals with disabilities and their families through research and its application.

The SIRG-QoL goals are to:

- hold an annual meeting to share information, and participate in other IASSID conferences and meetings
- participate in collaborative activities such as conferences and publications
- carry out collaborative projects and research
- disseminate research and its application within IASSID and to the wider community through text, journal articles, special issues, and allied means
- collaborate on ways to effect change at the societal level
