

Journal of Policy and Practice in Intellectual Disabilities

FIRST ANNOUNCEMENT AND CALL FOR PAPERS

Blackwell Publishing and the International Association for the Scientific Study of Intellectual Disabilities (IASSID) is proud to announce the launch of the Journal of Policy and Practice in Intellectual Disabilities, a brand new journal for 2004 and the official journal of the IASSID.

Aims and Scope

The Journal of Policy and Practice in Intellectual Disabilities is an international, peer-reviewed journal established by the International Association for the Scientific Study of Intellectual Disabilities (IASSID) to provide a forum for descriptions of evidence-based policy and practice related to people with intellectual and developmental disabilities. It focuses on policy development, service design, working methods and treatment procedures, financial, administrative and legal frameworks, and approaches to service user empowerment which are formed by research.

Manuscripts are welcome that report research, analyses, reviews, theoretical constructs, and other work exploring both tested ideas in policy and practice and possible future directions. Submissions are welcome from anywhere in the world, but the content must be sufficiently general to apply to other national environments. Policy and practice analyses should provide a framework for ideas and information that can readily translate into situations other than the author's own country. The Journal also welcomes brief reports of practice experiences documented by evidence-based research or data-based outcomes. In addition, summaries or abstracts that translate and comment on work previously published in non-English journals are welcome.
